Equality screening under Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998

Background

Under Section 75 of the Northern Ireland Act 1998 (Section 75) NIFRS has a specific statutory obligation as a public authority to have regard to the need to promote equality of opportunity between the following groups:

Section 75	Categories
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• persons of different religious belief, political opinion, racial group, age, marital status or sexual orientation;• men and women generally;• persons with a disability and persons without; and• persons with dependants and persons without.

Under Schedule 9 of the Act, NIFRS must also have regard to the promotion of good relations between those of different religious belief, political opinion or racial group. Our Equality Scheme explains how we implement our Section 75 obligations. A copy of the most recent Scheme, approved by the Equality Commission, is available on our website at www.nifrs.org/equality

We are required under Section 75 to screen and, where necessary, conduct Equality Impact Assessments (EQIA) on strategies, policies, plans and key decisions. The primary function of screening is to assess whether policy proposals would have a differential impact and in particular, an adverse differential impact on the categories of persons listed in Section 75, and any sub-groups within those categories.¹ If a policy shows a possible 'adverse impact' on any group, we must consider how this might be reduced. This would include how an alternative policy or approach might lessen this effect and serve to promote equality of opportunity and good relations.

The Section 75 statutory duties apply to internal policies e.g relating to our employees and to external policies relating to the community we serve.

Equality screening involves gathering evidence on the potential impacts of the proposal, focusing on the nine Section 75 equality groups. This information is used to help inform the 'screening decision', i.e. whether a full EQIA is required where a potential for significant impact on equality of opportunity has been identified.

¹ Equality Commission for Northern Ireland 'Practical Guidance on Equality Impact Assessment' April 2001 (revised 2005)

Section 75 equality screening outcomes are defined in terms of impact eg ‘major’, ‘minor’ or ‘none’. Possible screening decision outcomes are as follows:

Section 75	Equality Screening Outcomes
If the conclusion is that there is a ‘major’ impact for one or more of the Section 75 categories, then consideration should be given to carrying out a full EQIA (described as ‘screened in for EQIA’). If the conclusion is ‘minor’ for one or more of the Section 75 categories, then consideration should still be given to proceeding with an EQIA, or to measures/ amendments to mitigate the adverse impact; or to consider an alternative policy (described as ‘screened out for EQIA – with mitigation’). Where the conclusion is ‘none’ in that no significant impact has been identified on all of the Section 75 categories, then decision can be taken to not proceed with a full EQIA (described as ‘screened out for EQIA – no mitigation’).
Section 75	A conclusion in favour of a ‘major’ impact would arise when:-
a) The policy shows actual or potential for unlawful discrimination.
Section 75	A conclusion in favour of a ‘minor’ impact would arise when:-
b) The policy is not unlawfully discriminatory and any potential impacts on people are judged to be negligible; c) The policy, or certain proposals within it, are potentially unlawfully discriminatory, but this possibility can readily and easily be eliminated by making appropriate changes to the policy or by adopting appropriate mitigating measures; d) Any equality impacts caused by the policy are intentional because they are specifically designed to promote equality of opportunity for particular groups of disadvantaged people; and e) By amending the policy there are better opportunities to better promote equality of opportunity and/or good relations.
Section 75	A conclusion in favour of ‘none’ eg no impact, would arise when:-
a) The policy has no relevance to equality of opportunity or good relations; and b) The policy is purely technical in nature and will have no bearing in terms of its likely impact on equality of opportunity or good relations for people within the Section 75 equality and good relations categories.

The NIFRS Screening Report on the NIFRS Creditors Management and NIFRS Income & Debtor Management Policy has indicated no significant adverse impact for any of the Section 75 groups and decision has been taken ‘screen out’. A copy of the Screening Report is attached overleaf. The Screening Report will be reviewed and updated following this consultation exercise.

Section 75 Screening Report on NIFRS Creditors Management and NIFRS Income & Debtor Management Policy

Part 1: Policy Scoping

The first stage of the screening process involves scoping the policy or policy area. Policy scoping helps prepare the background and context and set out the aims and objectives for the policy being screened. At this stage, scoping the policy will help identify potential constraints as well as opportunities and will help the policy maker work through the screening process on a step by step basis.

You should note that the Section 75 statutory duties apply to internal policies (relating to people who work for NIFRS), as well as external policies (relating to those who are, or could be, served by NIFRS).

The policies are applied on a uniform approach as they have been developed using guidance from documentation such as the Financial Reporting Manual; the Financial Memorandum; Managing Public Money Northern Ireland and Prompt Payment of Invoices Circular.

If YES, please provide details:

No

Please answer the following questions to determine priority for timetabling the EQIA. On a scale of 1-3, with 1 being the lowest priority and 3 being the highest, assess the policy in terms of its priority for EQIA.

Proposed date for commencing EQIA: Not applicable

Any further comments on the screening process and any subsequent actions?

Part 4: Monitoring

Effective monitoring will help identify any future adverse impacts arising from these policies which may lead you to conduct an EQIA, as well as help with future planning and policy development. You should consider the guidance contained in the Equality Commission's Monitoring Guidance for Use by Public Authorities (July 2007). The Commission recommends that, where the policy has been amended or an alternative policy introduced, then you should monitor more broadly than for adverse impact (See Benefits, P.9-10, paras 2.13 – 2.20 of the Monitoring Guidance).

Please detail proposed monitoring arrangements below:

These policies will be reviewed as deemed appropriate (and when impacted by legislative and accounting best practice).

A review is planned in three years
